Visit China and study COMP344!

Yes, that’s right folks, spend your winter break to study COMP344 in summer with some cultural exploration, try your hand at Chinese and get a head start on COMP344 (E-Commerce Technology).

What is it exactly?

This is an about-three-week program in one of top-ten universities in China, including the study of 1st half unit of COMP344 together with local students, Chinese language lessons for absolute beginners, and cultural exchange activities.

Planned Dates

Depart Sydney Friday 5th July. Return home on Thursday 26th July.

Where?

Harbin Institute of Technology (HIT) is one of top ten universities in China. HIT was ranked no. 27 in the world by the Academic Ranking of World Universities in 2017. Harbin is the capital city of Heilongjiang province and its culture has been strongly influenced by Russia since it became a city in about 1898. Harbin was also an important city in Manchuria.
What does it cost me?

Return airfare: approx. $2,000
Visa: $110
Learning program: Pay normal tuition fee for the enrolment in COMP344 at Macquarie University
Accommodation and meals: To be covered by HIT
Other costs: approx. $200

Total cost excl. tuition fee (subject to final airfare confirmation) will be approximately $2,310. Other costs include local transport, entrance fees for specified cultural activities.

Grants of $3,000 per Australian student are available from the New Colombo Plan (NCP) initiative run by the Commonwealth Government. Macquarie has 10 of these grants to provide to participating students.

Grants of $2,500 per international student are provided by Macquarie University for 5 students.

Eligibility

- Enrolled in any degree offered by Department of Computing
- COMP344 takes ISYS224, COMP249 and ISYS358 as prerequisites.
